EXPLANATORY.

In publishing the minutes for the fifty-first Session, the Conference has ordered some historical data to be included ; hence the unusual size.

What is called the Historical Record, beginning at page 47, is an attempt to put the facts of the past fifty years in figures, and only so much is told as will thus condense.

It is not the most interesting way to write history, doubtless, nor is it by any means the easiest, but it happens to be in the present instance, the most practicable.

What is attempted here is :

1. A Conference Record, giving date and place of each Session ; the President elected and the increase in the Conference and in the Church throughout the District for that year. In many cases the last has not been accurately estimated because there was no way to find out, but the figures are correct as far as they go. It is certain the church has, since its organization, received 45,323 members, but it is not certain no more have been received.

2. A Ministerial Record, by which is shown the Conference history of every minister at any time having connection with the Conference. His name is given in full, his first appointment with date, and so on to the close.

3. A Lay Record, or the names of all Delegates to the Conference, with the number of the Session attended attached. These numbers correspond to the first column in the Conference record.

4. A Record of the Churches. This is the converse of the Ministerial Record, giving first the name of the charge and then the names of the supply for each year.

The reader is led into this Sahara of figures, through the pleasant rhetoric of Rev. J. K. Nichols, D. D., formerly Vice President and Professor of Belles Lettres of W. M. College. This sermon deserves a better place and better company, but readers will be accordingly grateful.

Thanks are due Rev. S. B. Southerland, D. D., for his kindness in looking over the sheets before they went to press ; and to Revs. Dr. Ward and Drinkhouse for access to valuable information.

T H I R D D A Y .

FRIDAY, March 14th, 1879.

Devotional exercises led by J. Thompson.

The following committees were announced :—

Foreign Mission.—J. T. Murray, E. J. Drinkhouse, S. T. Graham, C. W. Button, J. D. Cathell.

Ministerial Education.—J. T. Ward, P. L. Wilson, T. H. Lewis, John Divers, G. H. Erdman.

The Faculty of Instruction reported as follows :—

1st. We recommend for the Itinerancy, Arthur D. Murray, John L. Leilich, Daniel W. Anstine.

2nd. To be employed by the President, G. H. McFaden.

3rd. For Orders—S. R. Murray, J. W. Trout, C. B. Middleton, T. A. King, with the understanding in the case of Brother King that he will appear for examination on Church History during or before the next session of the Conference.

The report of committee on Unfinished Business was read and the items referred to the proper committees, viz :—1st and 3rd to committee on Missions, and 2nd to Conference Steward, who reported order complied with.

The committee on Fraternal Relations reported as follows :—

1. That Conference cordially welcomes the presence of Rev. Dr. A. Clark as fraternal messenger from Pittsburg Conference, and Revs. E. O. Ewing and J. F. Cowan of West Va. Conference.
2. That the public reception of all fraternal messengers and communications be made the order of the day, Saturday at 3½ P. M.
3. That the President be requested to reply in suitable terms of sympathy, &c. to the letters of Revs. M. J. Langhorne, Va., and E. R. Washington, S. C., and furnish messengers to represent this Conference at West Va. Conference and Pittsburg Conference.

The report of committee on President's Report was read, and 1st and 2nd items adopted as follows :—

1st. Sub-Districts.—The appointment of the Chairman of these Districts for the past year, a Committee to rearrange the Districts and to report upon the other suggestions under this head in the President's Report.

2nd. We commend the Camp Meeting Association of Maryland and District of Columbia to the favor of our people and open the way for the officers of the Association to represent its interests before this body. We also recommend the organization of a permanent Camp Meeting Association for the Eastern Shore of Maryland, Virginia and Delaware.

The 3rd item was referred to committee on Bible Cause, and the 4th and 5th to special committees.

The report of committee on Literature was adopted as follows :—

The committee on Literature having carefully examined the report of the Book Committee and accompanying paper submitted to them, take leave to say that they are satisfied of the correctness of all the statements therein made, and and only regret that they are not as favorable in all respects as the committee could wish.

While the aggregate circulation of The Methodist Protestant has been slightly increased within the past two years, they note the mortifying fact that within the same period a loss of one hundred and thirty subscribers has been suffered in Maryland, to-wit:—One hundred loss reported at the last Conference, and thirty additional reported at the present session. Your committee would emphasize this fact in the hope that our Ministers and laymen—the former especially—may be induced to arouse themselves and exert their great influence in extending the circulation of the paper, not only for the reason that it needs additional patronage to place it upon a self-supporting basis, but for the additional reason that wherever our paper goes the sphere of our Church influence must be extended. These two considerations should surely incite our friends, but especially our ministers, to put forth their best efforts in this behalf. In this connection and with a view of prompting others to the discharge of their duty, your committee commend the self-sacrificing zeal and abundant labors of the Editor and Book Agent.

Your committee would also earnestly erjoin it upon our ministers and members to recommend to all of the Sabbath Schools under our influence, the Bible School, published by our Concern. This is the first effort that has been made by our Church to meet a long existing want of our denomination in connection with Sabbath Schools, and apart from other considerations, the relative cheapness of this publication should secure for it a large patronage.

Your committee cannot conclude this report without expressing their high appreciation of the favorable business arrangement existing between our Book Concern and W. J. C. Dulany, Esq., which ought to be mutually advantageous; and they think that as we have secured a certain prestige as the result of this arrangement, and have been relieved to a certain extent, from financial re-responsibilities, we hold that it is the duty of our ministers and people to patronize Brother Dulany in the purchase of Sabbath School and other literature, and we earnestly recommend that this be done.

D. Wilson offered a paper on Conference Entertainment which was referred to a special Committee.

T. H. Lewis offered a paper which he proposed to have published with the minutes, setting forth in chronological order the history of the Ministers, Churches and Conference Meetings of the Maryland Conference for the past fifty years, which was referred to Committee on Literature.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Devotional exercises led by J. L. Straughn.

J. R. Caton presented his appeal from the action of Alexandria Quarterly Conference which was referred to a special Committee

The accounts in the case of the Norfolk Church were referred to the following auditing Committee : H. F. Zollickoffer, R. H. Gilbert, E. J. Drinkhouse.

The Committee on Boundaries made a partial report which was adopted as follows :

Item 1.—Separate Leipsic appointment from Leipsic Circuit, and make it a Station. The other appointments of Leipsic Circuit to be called Clayton Circuit.

Item 2.—Attach Mt. Carmel to Campbel Circuit and supplied by two ministers.

Item 3.—Divide Snow Hill Circuit, Franklin City, Girdletree Hill, Wattsville and Pittsville, formerly one circuit, to be called Franklin City Circuit; Snow Hill, Nassawongo and Baskettown to constitute Snow Hill Circuit.

Item 4.—Divide Kent Circuit, making of it three Stations, viz :—Chestertown, St. James and Kennedyville.

The following special Committees were announced :

On Colored Members.—S. B. Southerland, W. M. Strayer, C. T. Cochel, J. S. Crane, E. L. Williams.

On Williamsport Church.—L. W. Bates, J. J. Murray, J. W. Charlton, B. Milburn, J. B. Mitchell.

W. T. Dumm was placed on the superannuated list.

Committee on Ministerial Supply outside of the District reported as follows, which was adopted :—

The committee on Supply outside the District respectfully recommend the request of St John's, Baltimore, First Church, Pittsburg, Montgomery M. P. Church, Ala., and Heathsville Circuit be granted, provided our home work will not be injured or in any way seriously affected by such compliance.

The hour of day having arrived, letters of fraternal greeting were read from J. G. Westfall, of the Pittsburg Conference, and George Nestor, of the W. Va. Conference, followed by fraternal addresses by Alexander Clark, Editor Methodist Recorder. E. O. Ewing, and J. F. Cowan, of the W. Va. Conference, which were responded to by the President

Conference took a recess for a meeting of the Home Missionary Society.

FOURTH DAY.

FRIDAY, March 15th, 1879.

Devotional exercises led by J. M. Elderdice.

Auditing Committee reported and report adopted as follows:

The undersigned Committee appointed to audit the accounts in connection with Norfolk Mission Church, beg leave to report that they have performed the duty assigned them and find said accounts correct.

H. F. ZOLLICKOFFER,

E. J. DRINKHOUSE.

R. H. GILBERT.

A letter from Francis Brown, Charleston, S. C., was read and referred to the Committee on colored members.

A letter from J. E. T. Ewell was read and part of it referred to the Committee on Finance.

The Committee on J. R. Caton's appeal reported and their report was adopted as follows:

The Special Committee to whom was referred the appeal of Bro. J. R. Caton, of the Alexandria Church, beg leave to report that in their judgment, the appeal should be sustained, for the reasons therein set forth; it being obvious that the Quarterly Conference has no such powers as were assumed in the case cited; the members of the Church only, having the right to fix any term of probation—to extend the term, receive or exclude probationers.

S. R. SOUTHERLAND,
C. W. BUTTON.

The report of the Committee on Ministerial Education was adopted as follows :

The Committee on Board of Ministerial Education report:

That they have examined the plan of this Board and the history of its work and are pleased with both. Although the Board has an invested fund of $1,400 and the interest of the Allegheny Seminary Fund, which are used to sustain young men preparing for the Ministry in our Church, they find it necessary to ask contributions from the various Conferences.

1. We propose that to co-operate with this Board the Conference require each pastor to solicit contributions for this purpose at each appointment, once a year.

2. We suggest that Pastors and Quarterly Conferences recommend to this Conference to receive the aid of the Board only such young men as by character, health, piety and talents promise useful service to the Church.

The report of the Faculty of Instruction was adopted as follows :

The Faculty of Instruction beg leave to report as follows :—

1. S. J. Smith, J. M. Brown, Wm. T. Valiant and S. J. Willey have been passed to the second year class.

2. J. D. McFaden was passed on the studies of the first year, and Frederick C. Klein passed an approved examination in the first year's studies.

3. A. C. Berryman, who was ordained at our last session and who promised to continue his studies and appear for examination, duly appeared and passed with credit.

4. The following young brethren, desiring aid from the Board of Ministerial Education, appeared before the Faculty and were duly examined and recommended :—Wm. Franklin Roberts, Edwin Alonzo Warfield Wm. Waters Dumm, John Montgomery Gill and Smallwood Columbus Ohrom. The examination embraced the points recommended by the Board, and was entirely satisfactory.

We recommend that the Board be asked for an appropriation of $100 from September, 1878, to June, 1879, and $125 from September, 1879, to June, 1880 for Wm. F. Roberts and John M. Gill. An appropriation of $100 for each of the following named brethren.—E. A. Warfield, Wm. W. Dumm and S. C. Ohrom from September, 1879, to June, 1880.

We further recommend that Frederick C. Klein be continued in the College, and ask the Board to appropriate $150 for his benefit for the year beginning September, 1879.

5. J. M. Holmes, W. M. Strayer and S. T. Graham were elected members of the Faculty and were assigned as follows :—Wayland's Moral Science, J. M. Holmes, Watson's Institutes—Moral Law—W. M. Strayer, Mosheim's Church History, 5th to 12th century, S. T. Graham.

The Committee on Superannuated Claimants read their report, which by rule, was laid on the table.

It was ordered that the Financial Statement of the Board of Missions in the case of the Norfolk Church be published in the minutes as follows:

Statement of the Board of Missions of Maryland Annual Conference:

The exchange of Church properties contemplated at Norfolk, the last Annual Conference was effected in May, 1878. By it the Board was put in possession of property much more valuable than the old for our purposes and cash to the amount of $1500. Rev. E. R. M'Gregor was appointed to that charge and the Mission is now on the road to success. The Treasurer's Report is as follows:

The report of Committee on Western Maryland College was adopted as follows :

Report of the committee on Western Maryland College:—

Your committee have received and examined documents relating to the interests of Western Maryland College as follows:—The report of the Board of Trustees; of the President of the College; a tabular statement of the agent of the College; and the report of the Educational Endowment Society, and would respectfully submit a few points. At a meeting of the Board of Trustees, held in January last, it was shown that the session of the College just closing had been equal in result to any previous one; that there had been no increase of the College debt; that the income of the institution had been sufficient to defray all its current expenses and pay the interest on the debt; that the aid received from the State is the support of one student from each senatorial district, amounting in the aggregate to $300 for each student per annum. The Board of Trustees express great satisfaction with the operations of the College Agent, Rev. J. B. Walker, and have arranged with him to continue his agency until the amount of the debt is canceled. The amount of the net indebtedness of the College to date is $25,000.

The President of the College expresses great gratification with the presence of the State students at the College and highly commends their deportment, and says they are a great advantage in every way to the institution. He justly deplores the small number of Theological students, and earnestly anticipates a Theological course of study in the curriculum of the College. The number of students enrolled from September, 1878, to March, 1879, is 129; of boarders there are 68, coming from 23 counties of Maryland and from the District of Columbia, and from other States. By the tabular statement of the Agent of the College it will be seen that of the $25,000 proposed to be obtained in obligations, payable when the whole amount is secured, he has obtained $15,000; besides this he has received promises as good as notes, only contingent on providential circumstances, amounting to $2513, and encouragements amounting to $735, and cash $174.43. These amounts have been secured at an expenditure of only $612.59.

From the report of the Secretary of the Educational Endowment Society we learn that its treasurer has received during the year the note of the Trustees of the College of $1,149.92, embracing the amounts collected on the assessment plan for the years 1877-78, also the interest due on liens and notes, amounting to $531.72 to July 1, 1878. The society passed the following resolutions, which are commended to the notice of the Conference:—"That all money paid this Society on account of the plan of the Board of Trustees of Western Maryland College for the payment of the entire debt of said College, shall be invested in registered 4 per cent. bonds of the United States until the entire amount of $25,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay said debt, shall have been received by this Society in conformity with the plan aforesaid, and that the Treasurer, when necessary, is authorized to secure a vault in the Safe Deposit Company for the safe keeping of our investments. The securities at present held by the Society are—Liens $1,664.71; notes, $3,519.02. Nothing on the assessment plan has been received during the year."

Your committee recommend that the Agent of the College be authorized to collect the amounts of the notes given on the $25,000 plan by persons who are willing to pay them in anticipation of securing the whole amount, and pay them over to the Educational Endowment Society for investment, as contemplated by their resolution as above cited.

In view of the great success of the Agent of the College in obtaining securities against the College debt, your committee earnestly urge upon the Conference not to slack in enthusiasm in their efforts to push this enterprise to its successful consummation at the time set for it, next June. Also, your committee in behalf of the Conference would commend Rev. J. B. Walker to the co-operative sympathy of all our charges in this work until this work be finished. And, again, we must hold up to the Conference Western Maryland College as a specialty of earnest prayer, love and faith in its success as being an indispensable adjunct to our Methodist Protestant work of promoting religious liberty by educating and christianizing the people by our methods. In order to secure the speedy and final success of the College Agent in his mission, your committee for the Conference hereby appeal to our sister Conferences, especially West Virginia and the Southern Conferences, to second his efforts and authorize him to approach them in any way desirable to secure their co-operation.

The report of the Committee on Sabbath Schools was read as follows:

The committee on Sabbath Schools beg leave to report as follows:—

We recognize, with gratitude to God, the increased interest which has been awakened in the Sabbath School work by means of the attention and diligence of pastors, and the facilities afforded by the establishment of a paper specially devoted to this department of church work.

We recommend: 1. That pastors continue to devote special attention to their Sabbath Schools, and deem practicable special sermons to the young people of their charges and earnestly labor for the conversion of their souls.

2. That the Superintendent, officers and teachers give to the pastors their earnest and active co-operation in the instruction of the children, with a view to their spiritual benefit and that in varying the exercises of the school, regard be had to this end, rather than to that of their mere entertainment.

3. That we recommend that in each Sub District Conference a Convention of the Sabbath Schools be held at least once a year.

4. That we recommend the use of the Sabbath School papers of our own church in preference to all others, viz: "Bible School," "Morning Guide," "Sunday School," Child's Recorder," and that the school use the Shorter and Longer Catechism.

5. We recommend the appointment by this Conference of a suitable brother to act as corresponding secretary of Sabbath Schools.

The report was amended by adding to the last item: "and that T. H. Lewis be elected to fill the position, and that he be ex-officio Chairman of the Committee on Sabbath Schools," and then adopted.

The order of the day, the Call for a Convention was taken up and discussed.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Devotional exercises led by G. Q. Bacchus.

The Committee on Boundaries made an additional report, which was adopted as follows:

1st. Attach Lewistown Mission to Jefferson Circuit.

2nd. Divide Severn Mission. Form a Circuit of Ellicott City, White Ground and Simpsonville, to be called Ellicott City Circuit; leaving Severn, Gideon, Mt. Winans, Centralia and All Saints to constitute Severn Mission.

A paper from Susquehanna Circuit was referred to the Committee on Missions.

A Resolution by J. R. Caton was referred to the following Committee.—J. J. Murray, J. T. Lassell and W. H. Council.

The Committee on Literature made an additional report, which was adopted as follows :

The committee on Literature, to whom was referred the proposition of Rev. T. H. Lewis respecting the publication of the minutes of this Conference for the present year, in a form and with such additions as must tend to make them more than usually interesting to the church and valuable as a historic record of the Maryland Annual Conference, beg leave to express their hearty approval of the plan, and recommend that he arrange with the Conference Steward, the present committee on Publication of the Minutes, for their publication in the form proposed on the condition that Brother Lewis shall furnish copies of the same to the Steward for distribution to the different Stations, Circuits and Missions, according to the amount contributed by them, respectively, on the basis of sixteen cents per copy, he (Brother Lewis) assuming all risk of publication, it being understood that he will be permitted to sell copies enough to reimburse himself all expenditure in this behalf incurred.

As supplementary to the above we report the following, which we heartily commend for the consideration of the Conference :—

Your committee also take great pleasure in recommending The Methodist Recorder, our sister official paper, published at Pittsburg, under the able editorship of Rev. Alexander Clark, D. D. The hope is expressed that it shall share largely in our patronage, thus reciprocating the favor with which our own church organ has been received in the North and West through the generous recommendation of Dr. Clark. Mention must also be made of the Sabbath School Literature he edits: The Morning Guide, The Sunday School and The Child's Recorder. These, with our Bible School, make a complement of little papers which should receive the undivided support of our people.

Our attention has also been called to The Methodist Protestant Magazine, published at Adrian, Michigan, and edited by Prof. D. S. Stevens. In its enlarged and greatly improved condition we heartily recommend it to the patronage of the church.

A Letter from G. H. McFaden, President Ala. Conference was referred to Committee on Ministerial Supply outside the District.

The report of Committee on Conference Entertainment was adopted as follows :

The Special Committee to whom was referred the question of paying for the entertainment of our Annual Conference Assemblies in future, beg leave to report that they have carefully considered the subject, and reached the conclusion that it would be injudicious to change the time honored custom of the Conference in this regard. The effect, as they believe, of the proposed change, would be, First: To diminish the attendance of Delegates and probably of Ministers, at our annual assemblies. Especially would this be the case as to Ministers and Delegates connected with our feeble Churches, who would thus be subjected to an additional expense that they might be unable or unwilling to bear. Ministers and Delegates from our stronger and more prosperous Churches might reasonably expect to be reimbursed their expenses in this behalf incurred; but it would be otherwise with those less favorably circumstanced. Besides; entertainment devolving daily expense upon Ministers and Delegates, would either impel the Conference to hurry through its business in an unseemly manner, or, have a tendency to lessen the attendance of the Delegates very early in the session.

Second: There is reason to fear these paid entertainments would seriously affect our annual collections for the Superannuated and Missionary cause—perhaps to the extent of the amount paid by the members of Conference for their entertainment

Third: Under the proposed system it would be impossible to ever hold Conference in our smaller towns, like those of Centreville, Easton and Chestertown, for the reason that the lack of hotel and boarding house accommodation would preclude it; since the better class of people who, being "given to hospitality," usually open their houses for the free entertainment of Conference, would not do so for money. They would feel that they were insulted at the bare intimation of such a proposition.

Fourth: The local churches and communities would lose the benefit of their Christian intercourse between members of Conference and the families among whom they are distributed during the session, and many of the most pleasant social features and attractions of Conference would be lost by the proposed departure from our ancient usage.

Fifth: It would be a reflection upon the Methodist Protestant Church, a publication to the world that her people are no longer willing to provide a few days' entertainment for their representative men, including a faithful and illy-paid ministry, when assembled, at some sacrifice to themselves, to attend to the special and general interests of the Church

Sixth: The solitary example of the Maryland Annual Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church in adopting a system so utterly at variance with the custom of our own and other churches in this land, would bespeak a condition of things that our people should blush to own; and your committee therefore earnestly appeal to the honored laymen in this Conference to bring this matter prominently to the attention of their respective churches, and awaken a new interest upon the subject of Conference entertainment, to the end that this Conference may no longer feel embarrassed or humiliated by the thought that it will not be welcomed and cared for by any or all of our local churches able to provide free entertainment.

We also recommend that the pastors instead of paying local agents, bring the contributions of their charges to Conference that the Church may have both the credit and benefit of such contributions; and suggest to all Life Members and Life Directors to be careful to draw the Bibles to which they may be respectively entitled for gratuitous distribution, which they will find of great advantage to them in their pastoral work.

Judson Swift, Pastor of M. P. Church at Adrian, Mich. was introduced and addressed the Conference.

The Committee on Official Character and Reports, reported.

FIFTH DAY.

MONDAY, March 17th, 1879.

Devotional exercises led by C. H. Littleton.

J. J. Murray being called away from Conference, J. T. Murray was placed in his stead on the Special Committee on J. R. Caton's resolutions.

The Committee on Williamsport Church reported as follows :

Your Committee to whom was referred the Williamsport difficulty, after an examination of the case, have reached the conclusion that it would be well to place the matter in the hands of the President, for him to take counsel and manage the case according to his judgment, and respectfully so report.

The name of George W. Simpson was ordered to be published in the minutes as Chaplain in U. S. Army.

The committee on Temperance reported as follows :—

WHEREAS, A universal experience and observation disclose the unspeakable horrors consequent upon intemperance, and that the time has come for every lover of God and humanity to exert himself to the utmost of his ability against this giant evil, and in view of the fearful death-harvest annually gathered by this Demon, we declare ourselves in favor of every plan or means that will rescue the fallen from the filthy coils of this deadly monster, and save the innocent from his dangerous grasp ; therefore Resolved, 1st, That the ministers of this Conference use their utmost endeavors to cultivate a public sentiment in favor of temperance, and that they, with our people, co-operate as far as practicable with all temperance work.

2. That in our judgment no man can be a consistent Christian who will indulge in the use or sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage.

3. That we recognize in a Prohibitory or Local Option Law a strong hope of the temperance cause, and that we will encourage the same.

The assessment for Foreign Missions was referred to committee on Foreign Missions.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Devotional exercises led by J. F. Cowan.

The committee on Boundaries made an additional report which was adopted as follows :—

Set off an appointment in Perry County, Pa., to be called Perry Mission.

The report of committee on Foreign Missions was adopted as follows :

The committee on Foreign Missions recommend the following :—

1. That the assessment for Foreign Missions be twenty-five per cent. of as much as may be assessed as the salary of the President.

2. The formation of Women's Foreign Missionary Societies of the Methodist Protestant Church, according to the Constitution submitted with this report, and that said Constitution be published in the minutes.

3. That all Missionary organizations within the Maryland District which have been co-operating with other Missionary agencies, be earnestly solicited to transfer their interest and influence to the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of our own denomination.

4. That a Conference Executive Committee be appointed having general oversight of the auxiliary societies, and to whom the auxiliaries shall make their reports; and that Miss Jane R. Roberts, of East Baltimore, Mrs. Mary J. Zollickoffer, of West Baltimore, Mrs. Mary A. Murray, of Georgetown, Miss Annie R. Yingling, of Westminster, Mrs. Angeline Drinkhouse, of Lexington Street, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Moore, of 9th Street Washington, and Mrs. Sarah Baynes, of Washington Street, Baltimore, be designated as said committee.

5. That we adopt the recommendation of the Board of Missions to the effect following:—That the third Sabbath in May in each year be set apart and observed throughout the whole Church as a "Children's Day," upon which the pastors and Sabbath-school superintendents are earnestly requested to hold special missionary services for the children, in all our Churches and Sabbath-schools, and take a special children's missionary collection in aid of our work. This action is not intended to supersede, or in any way interfere with the organization of "Juvenile Missionary Societies in the Sabbath-schools," as provided for by the rule of Discipline, but rather to supplement and aid such societies.

6. The committee make courteous acknowledgement of the reception of a letter from Isabel Hart, Corresponding Secretary of the Baltimore Branch W. F. M. S. of the M. E. Church and are gratified to hear of the good work accomplished by the society she represents.

CONSTITUTION OF THE WOMAN'S FOREIGN MISSIONARY SOCIETY OF THE METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH.

ART. I.—NAME.—This Association shall be called "The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Protestant Church."

ART. II.—PURPOSE.—The purpose of this society is to unite the women of the Methodist Protestant Church in an effort to send out Missionaries, Bible readers and Teachers to women in heathen lands.

ART. III.—MEMBERSHIP.—The payment of one dollar shall constitute annual membership, and the payment of ten dollars at one time, life membership, and fifty dollars a Life Director.

ART. IV.—OFFICERS.—The officers of this society shall consist of a President, not less than three Vice Presidents, a Recording Secretary, a Corresponding Secretary, a Treasurer, and not less than ten Managers. These shall constitute an Executive Committee for the administration of the affairs of the society, seven of whom shall form a quorum. These officers shall be elected annually at the meeting of the society.

ART. V.—DUTIES OF OFFICERS.—The President, and in her absence one of the Vice Presidents, shall preside at all meetings of the society and of the Executive Committee. The Recording Secretary shall give notice of all meetings of the society and of its Executive Committee, and keep a record of the proceedings. The Corresponding Secretary, under the direction of the Executive Committee, shall conduct the correspondence of the society with foreign missionaries, and with other societies, and its auxiliaries (hereafter mentioned). It shall also be her duty to present to the annual meeting a report of the work of the society during the year. The Treasurer shall receive all contributions, keeping proper books of accounts, and shall make such disposition of the funds as the society may direct, each order being signed by the President and Secretary of the society.

ART. VI.—BOARD OF MISSIONS.—This society shall work in harmony and full sympathy with the Board of Missions of the Methodist Protestant Church, reserving to itself the right, however, to give direction to all its funds.

ART. VII.—AUXILIARY SOCIETIES.—Any number of women who shall contribute not less than ten dollars annually may form a branch auxiliary to this society, and be represented in its Board of Managers. Each auxiliary shall adopt its own by-laws.

ART. VIII.—RAISING FUNDS.—The funds of the society shall not be raised by public collections in our churches, but by securing members, life members, and managers, and in such other ways as the society may determine, and which shall not conflict with the regular collections for the Board of Missions.

ART. IX.—ALTERING THE CONSTITUTION.—This Constitution may be altered or amended at any annual meeting of the society by a two-thirds vote of the members present.

SIXTH DAY.

TUESDAY, March 18th, 1879.

Devotional exercises led by F. H. Mullineaux.

The following, offered by W. J. Neepier, was adopted:—

Resolved, That we hereafter conduct our Anniversary exercises of the Missionary and Superannuated Fund Societies in connection with business meetings of said societies, and dispense with addresses and extra collections on said occasions.

The committee to re-arrange the Sub-Districts made their report which was adopted as follows:—

1. That the question of the number of sessions to be held during the year be referred to the several Sub-District Conferences.
2. That unstationed ministers be recognized as members of said Conferences.
3. That No. 4 be Lynchburg, Campbell, Surry and Norfolk, and consolidate the remainder of No. 4 with No. 3 as Sub-District No. 3.

The committee on Missions made their report which was adopted as follows:—

RESOLUTIONS.

1st. That the old property of the North West Mission be sold, or surrendered to the Board of Benificence if they will accept it, on or before the first of July next.

2nd. That the Board of Managers of the Home Missionary Society are hereby authorized to securely invest the building fund, and that we cannot regard the expenditure of said money on the Lexington Street Church, or any other church property now in our possession as a secure investment.

3rd. That the Board of Managers of the Missionary Society are hereby authorized to lease a lot for the New Chapel.

4th. That the large deficiency enforces the recommendation made last year, that every Pastor be required to do his utmost to collect the full amount of this assessment whatever difficulties may arise in his charge.

On motion the fifteen dollars assssed to Middleway was ordered to be paid to Missionary at Norfolk.

The Conference raised by voluntary subscription the sum of $140.00 for the same purpose and constituted E. J. Drinkhouse, Treasurer, to receive and forward the same.

The committee on Colored Members reported that they had received $70 from F. Brown, of Charleston, S. C., which they had divided equally between the Superannuated Fund and Home Missionary Societies.

The following resolution was passed :—

On motion, Resolved, That the first paragraph under the head of "1871-1874," page 44 of Manual, be amended as follows: Strike out all after the word shall, in line 5, and insert the following: Deprive you of any portion in the distribution of said fund, this year.

J. B. Butler and C. O. Melvin were left without appointments for one year at their own request.

The following was adopted on motion of F. T. Tagg:

Resolved, That this Conference abolish the College Assessment.

The Faculty of Instruction submitted the following additional report:

Joseph William Kirk—18 years of age—will need aid from the 1st of September, $100.

The Special Committee on J. R. Caton's resolution reported as follows:

That they deem it inexpedient to make the general change in respect to the government of Missions, contemplated by said resolutions.

That, in their opinion, the law regulating the election of Stewards, entitles qualified members on Missions if present at the election of the Quarterly Conference to vote.

The last item was referred to the next Conference.

The Committee on Finance reported as follows:

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON FINANCE.

1st. They have examined the furnished Statements of J. N. Gilbert, the Conference Agent of the Presidential Parsonage with the accompanying vouchers and found them correct.

2nd They recommend that J. N. Gilbert be tendered the thanks of the Conference for his services, and be continued in the position.

3d. They herewith recommend that the President's salary be assessed upon the District as follows:

The following resolution was adopted :—

Resolved, That we heartily approve and endorse the action of our brethren of Baltimore, Washington, Georgetown, and contiguous Stations and Circuits, in the organization of a permanent Camp Meeting Association for the purpose of purchasing a grove and establishing a camp ground to be known by our denominational name, and we earnestly recommend the enterprise to our brethren.

Voluntary subscriptions were received from members of the Conference to the amount of $152 for Frederick City Mission, and W. S. Hammond appointed Treasurer.

The following was adopted :—

Resolved, That the general interests of our Church, viz:—The Board of Ministerial Education, the Foreign Missionary Board and our Colleges, demand a great increase of Christian zeal and effort in the education of our people in this direction and in the securing of larger collections.

The following was adopted :—

Resolved, That this Conference recognize the enterprise of W. W. Busted, Esq., publisher of the Daily Protestant, for the very creditable sheet that he has published during the sittings of the Conference, and for the full and correct reports of the proceedings.

The following was adopted :—

Resolved, That the Conference Steward be authorized to purchase a suitable trunk or satchel for the use of the Secretary of the Conference.

Frederick C. Kline, being recommended by the Faculty of Instruction, was received into the itinerancy.

The following was adopted :—

Resolved, That the thanks of this Conference be and they are hereby tendered to the Secretary and his assistants for the very efficient manner in which they have discharged their duties, as also to the Conference, Missionary and Super-annuated Fund Stewards.

The following report was adopted :—

The committee on the petition of Wm. F. Pentz, recommend the appointment of John G. Clarke, W. J. C. Dulany and J. N. Gilbert to consider the matter to which it refers, and report to the next Annual Conference

The President then read the following :—

OBITUARY.

REV. JOHN EDGAR READ.

JOHN EDGAR READ, son of John G. and Mary A. Read, was born August 25th, 1846, near Lauraville, Baltimore county, Md. He passed his boyhood amidst the church and social surroundings of that simple country-side, and the wholesome influence of a Christian home. Under the preaching of Dr. A. Eversole, he was converted to God, February 9th, 1861, connecting himself with Eutaw Methodist Protestant Church. He was licensed to preach November—, 1864, (being then but eighteen years of age) by the Quarterly Conference of Baltimore Circuit, and served that circuit as junior preacher for the remainder of the year. At the Conference of March, 1865, seated at Easton, Md., he was admitted into the itinerancy, and appointed as associate of Rev. H. C. Cushing, to Queen Anne's. He subsequently travelled Bel-Air, Jefferson and Talbot Circuits as assistant pastor; took charge of Lexington Street Station, Baltimore, in '69; returned to Talbot Circuit as assistant to Rev. B. F. Benson in '72; on the partition of that field held the pastorate of the Oxford side for the four years following; and then of Easton Station in '77 and '78, where he laid down his labor with his life. He was passed to deacon's orders at the Conference of '67, but not being twenty-one years of age his ordination took place the following August in Buckeystown, Md., and in '69 he received his elder's credentials. He was married to C. Alverta, daughter of the late E. C. Thomas, Esq., of Baltimore, March 4th, 1873.

His life was only the simple, uneventful life of a Methodist itinerant. A refined, sensitive, expressive face, and his spirit as it uttered itself in the daily commonplaces of life as friend, pastor and preacher—these revealed him. He was not, nor could he ever have been a great man. His mind was strong and active, and had the capacity of original suggestion and continued growth; in his opinions he was independent, candid, decided, and he was not deficient in courage, but he was contemplative rather than energetic; feminine qualities were in excess—sensitivity, amiability, gentleness, a languor and softness of tone and manner—qualities that gave him an irresistible grasp upon the affections of those who knew him, but deprived him of both the taste and power for large public influence, the positions and work that win and wear the titles of greatness. And beside he was destitute of ambition, again and again turning away from proffers of lucrative positions, choosing rather the retirement and simplicity of his country pastorates. It was, however, due to this very composition of nature that his character was haloed with its crowning beauty—his unsullied piety. Popular as he was for his social qualities, and as admired for his talents, it was for his simple, unconscious holiness that EDGAR READ was most known and respected by his fellowmen. He was given to introspection; pained and morbidly sensitive heart-searching for the weaknesses and evils of his nature; the laying open of his heart to God's spirit in long, tearful, passionate prayer—a habit that was never relaxed to the end, and that accounted, at once, for the cast of habitual sadness upon his countenance in its repose, and for an occasional lightness of spirits that was like the playfulness of a child. Few of those who were disposed to grieve over what seemed frivolity at such times, knew that it was reaction from the strain of hours of spiritual agony, or could appreciate the unspoiled childlikeness of a man who could find occasion for mirth in things so simple and innocent. To a degree beyond most men he had the enlightened understanding that looked far into the tranquil mysteries of religious truth, a heart strangely steeped in the purity and sympathy of Christ, a passionate desire for the salvation of souls, and a life, in public and private, blameless and unrebukable in the sight of men.

As a preacher, his abilities were of an unusual order. He brought to his pulpit a poetic temperament, a marvelous flow of language, freshness in sermon construction and expression of thought, and great fertility in the invention of figure and illustration. His discourses were sweetness and light. They dwelt rarely upon doctrine, constantly upon the deepest experiences of the Christian soul, and to use his own fond phrasing, "the humanities of the word of God." If, when his thoughts were bound, his gesticulation was angular and ungraceful, and his language involved and obscure, when the noble heart waxed warm, and the sinewy mind snapped its fetters, all this passed away, unsuspected tones deepened the musical, pathetic voice; the dark, sad face glowed radiant as a seraph's "thoughts that breathed and words that burned," truths that started into shape and were as "living creatures having wings and feet," poured from his lips with impetuous fervor. "It was philosophy as luminous with love as the evening cloud is glorious with the rays of the setting sun." His success was not that which was manifest in revivals or crowded congregations. It was the still work whose abundant fruits shall be seen in the judgment day. His was the ministry of a sower of deathless seed. His name shall be a love-word, and the fragrance of his piety shall linger in every home that was ever blessed by his presence," and "being dead he yet speaketh" in every pulpit he ever occupied; and over hundreds of souls his memory shall brood as the reproach of all short-comings, and as inspiration to all that is exalted in Christian life. "His works do follow him."

The sudden and untimely death of this rare man of God took place after a few weeks of nervous prostration, in Oxford, Md., on Sabbath morning, July 28th, 1878. The closing scene was glorified by triumphs that mortal words can never describe. Dissolution itself was stayed for hours by the unearthly exaltation of his departing spirit. The funeral ceremony was performed in Starr Church, Baltimore, in the presence of a great multitude. Subsequently a memorial service was held in his church in Easton, Rev. J. M. Holmes officiating, and a mural tablet, commemorative of the love of his latest congregation, was erected beside his pulpit. His remains sleep in their last repose amid the shades of Loudon Park, watched of angels until the "chief Shepherd shall appear."

SEMI-CENTENNIAL SERMON

BY REV. J. K. NICHOLS, D. D.

PREACHED BEFORE THE CONFERENCE AT CENTREVILLE,
MARCH 12th, 1879, BY EXECUTIVE APPOINTMENT.

"According to this time it shall be said of Jacob and of Israel, what hath God wrought!"—Numbers, 23:23.

God is the great worker, the Almighty, the Infinite worker, filling immensity, not only with his presence, but with the works of his hands. There are no works in the wide universe that He hath not wrought. "All things were made by Him, and without Him was not anything made that was made." He is the efficient cause of all things. All other causes are but secondary in their character; God himself is the final cause of all things—even of causes themselves.

Infidel Scientists and Evolutionists in their anxiety to get rid of a personal God in the works of creation, may dement themselves in the absurd and fruitless endeavor to find amid the elements and forces of nature the germs of existence—the secret cause of life and being—as though nature could produce itself; but all really sane minds will gladly fall back upon the only satisfactory solution of the great problem—that of Divine Revelation—a Great First Cause, the Deity himself, who planned and executed the universe, and set all its complicated machinery into motion. "Every house is builded by some man, but he that built all things is God." Immensity is full of His bandy-works; and whether we contemplate them in their complicated natures, or their countless numbers; in their measureless magnitudes or their overwhelming grandeur, we may well exclaim in the language of the text, What hath God wrought?

How sublime that apostrophe to the Creator of all things by Derzavin, the great Russian poet—

'O Thou Eternal One! whose presence bright
All space doth occupy, all motion guide;
Unchanged through time's all devastating flight;
Thou only God! There is no God beside!
Being above all beings—Mighty One!

Whom none can comprehend and none explore.
 Who fill'st existence with Thyself alone;
 Embracing all—supporting—ruling o'er—
 Being whom we call God, and know no more!

"Thou from primeval nothingness did'st call
 First chaos, then existence; Lord! on Thee
 Eternity had its foundations--all
 Sprung from Thee--of light, joy, harmony,
 Sole origin--all life, all beauty Thine.
 Thy word created all, and doth create;
 Thy splendor fills all space with rays divine;
 Thou art, and wast, and shall be Glorious! Great!
 Life-giving, life-sustaining, potentate!

"Thy chains the unmeasured universe surround,
 Upheld by Thee, by Thee inspired with breath!
 Thou the beginning with the end hast bound,
 And beautifully mingled life with death!
 As sparks mount upward from the fiery blaze,
 So suns are born, so worlds spring forth from Thee!
 And as the spangles in the sunny rays
 Shine round the silver snow, the pageantry
 Of Heaven's bright army glitters in Thy praise!

"A million torches, lighted by Thy hand,
 Wander unwearied through the blue abyss;
 They own Thy power, accomplish thy command,
 All gay with life, all eloquent with bliss!
 What shall we call them? Piles of crystal light?
 A glorious company of golden streams?
 Lamps of celestial ether burning bright?
 Suns lighting systems with their joyous beams?
 But Thou, to these, art as the noon to night!"

And all this is as sublimely true as it is poetically grand and beautiful. The old Chaldean sage, far back in the past, looked into the heavens, and, awe-struck with the grandeur of the heavenly bodies fell down and worshiped them as gods. The Psalmist of that period looked into the same heavens; but he saw only the glory and majesty of the Godhead, exclaiming, "The heavens declare the glory of God and the firmament sheweth his handy-work!" And instead of falling down and worshiping the creature, he broke out into a transport of devotion to the Creator, exclaiming, "When I consider the heavens the work of Thy fingers, the moon and the stars which Thou hast ordained, what is man that Thou art mindful of him or the son of man that Thou visitest him?" But what were the heavens of the psalmist and of the old Chaldean sage of three thousand years ago compared with the heavens of the Astronomer of to-day? The revelations of the telescope have widened the sphere of human observation almost to infinity, and multiplied the heavenly bodies until they are positively beyond the power of conception. "The telescope," says Dr. March, "in its greatest power penetrates 500 times farther into the depths of space than the unassisted eye. We can see without its help stars and nebulae so remote that no calculations of the astronomer can estimate their distance. And yet the great telescope shows us one hundred and twenty millions of such heavens as the psalmist saw. The astronomer sees the sky in every direction powdered with stars, strewn through the fields of space thick as rain-drops. Every addition to the power of instruments only increases proportionally the number of the stars, suns, systems that are seen. We are warranted, therefore, in the inference that all the human eye has yet seen by the aid of the mightiest instruments, is but a point, a single grain, amid the infinitude of worlds and universes which have been formed by the all-creating hand, and which are upheld by the all-sustaining word of God." ("Unwritten Word"—page 43.)

When we contemplate, therefore, and take in, by the power of the imagination, as far as we can "all this unmeasured symbolical round," these countless "suns and systems sphered afar," with all their magnificence and supernal grandeur, we are overwhelmed with astonishment and admiration, and instinctively cry out in the language of the text, What hath God wrought? "Great and marvelous are Thy works, Lord, God Almighty, in wisdom hast Thou made them all."

But we are more particularly interested in the creation of our own Solar System, and especially the world we inhabit—this old home-sphere of ours—where the most momentous events of all times have transpired, and the most wonderful manifestations of the Deity have been made, challenging the admiration of both men and angels.

"In the beginning," the inspired penman tells us, "God created the heavens and the earth, and the earth was without form and void; and darkness was upon the face of the deep; and the spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters. And God said, let there be light; and there was light."

In coldness wrapped old chaos lay,
Inert, and without form and void;
With not a single spring to play,
Nor energy to be employed:
As yet no gravitation force,
No action on its central poles;
A stranger to the mighty course,
Though ether bright when now it rolls!

A vast and fathomless expanse,
O'er which an eddy never curled,
Just spoke from naught, or else, perchance,
The ruins of a former world!
Unbroken silence reigned around,
And darkness was upon the deep,
And all the dismal, dread profound,
Was held in more than mortal sleep!

The spirit moved upon the flood,
And from amidst the stillness broke
A voice—it was the voice of God!
And all the slumbering depth awoke!
"Let there be light! and there was light!"

And now the sullen, formless mass, thrilling with a strange power, is moving in every part; and as we gaze the earth takes form in solemn grandeur. Each word divine, a mighty fiat, goes forth burning with intelligence and teeming with power, and all chaos hastens to obey the creative mandate. The arching heavens rise up as by magic; the waters gather to the sea, and the dry land appears. The earth clothes itself with green and grows redolent with fragrant bloom. Instinct with life the waters bring forth, and the earth, and the air, each in accordance with its own peculiar element. The sun takes his place in heaven to illuminate the day, and the moon and stars to give light by night. And last of all, man himself is made in the image of God, formed of the dust of the ground, and God breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, and man became a living soul, endowed with reason, crowned with noble thoughts and stamped with God's own immortality. Thus in six days, as we are told, the heavens and earth were finished, and all the host of them; when amid Sabbath rejoicings and the loud acclaim of angelic choirs, the new-found earth goes forth to take her place among her sister stars. And God saw that it was good—aye very good! And as we gaze upon this gorgeous sphere of ours and the glowing system to which it belongs, we cannot but exclaim again, in the language of the text, "What hath God wrought?"

But alas! how short was earth's triumph, how brief her career of glory! The chorus of creation had scarcely died on the air, when man, putting forth the hand of disobedience and partaking of the forbidden fruit, "brought sin into the world and all our woe." Paradise became a desolation and man an outlaw upon the earth, and the very ground was cursed for his sake; and it repented God that he had made man. But the Creator did not abandon his work. Purposing a glorious scheme, Redemption, God declared that the seed of the woman should bruise the serpent's head. Symbol, and promise, and prophecy, all united to foreshadow the coming of the great deliverer. During the long intervening ages there were mighty forces at work producing changes preparatory to his glorious advent. "But when the fullness of time was come, God sent forth His Son, made of a woman, made under the law, to redeem them that were under the law, that we might receive the adoption of sons." Angels heralded His coming, and the Star of Bethlehem signaled the mighty event. And God said, "Behold I make all things new!" Again the Spirit broods upon the earth, and moving amid its moral desolations, for God works on mind as well as matter, O memorable day of Pentecost! "suddenly there came a sound from heaven as of a rushing mighty wind, and there appeared cloven tongues like as of fire," for the Holy Ghost descended, filling all believing hearts with his inspiring presence and shaking the very earth with his mighty power. And now, behold, the new Creation, symbolized by the Church of Christ, takes form in simple beauty and moral grandeur, rising up amidst the sterile wastes of time "a fairer temple to the living God!" Thus, after ages of preparation, the work of the world's renewal was grandly begun; and for nearly two thousand years it has gone steadily forward toward its completion. We are nearing now the sunset-hour of the final millennial-day of its progress, and the glorious consummation is just at hand, when again, with a mightier inspiration and a richer burst of song, not only shall the morning stars sing together and the sons of God shout aloud for joy, but earth and heaven unite, aye

"The whole creation join in one,
To bless the sacred name
Of Him who sits upon the throne,
And to adore the Lamb."

And when we contemplate this glorious work, in its inception and its progress ; in present advanced condition and its certain future triumph ; when we think of the countless millions of the redeemed on earth and in heaven, and allow our minds to go forward in vision to the final gathering of that white-robed throng, for multitude innumerable, who shall stand before the throne with palms in their hands, and catch the echo of that triumphant song, "Unto Him that loved us and washed us from our sins in His own blood, and hath made us kings and priests unto God and His Father ; to Him be glory and dominion forever and ever, amen !" how can we but again exclaim in the language of the text, with shouting and holy rapture, "What hath God wrought !"

But the greatest and most glorious of all the works of God, is the conversion and sanctification of the human soul. This is peculiarly and emphatically the work of God. "The wind bloweth where it listeth, and thou hearest the sound thereof, but canst not tell whence it cometh, and whither it goeth : so is every one that is born of the Spirit." The crowning glory of creation, as such, was the making of man in the image of God. This was an evident advance in the scale of moral and intellectual being, even beyond that of angelic natures. The angelic was created in the relation of servant, the human in that of son, thus proving his superiority. God made man in His own image, and in His own likeness ; as near the Divine original as the finite could approach the infinite, and placed him just at the foot of the throne.

"Foremost of created things,
Head of all thy works he stood ;
Nearest the great King of Kings,
And little less than God !"

But glorious as was man in his original creation, in his creation anew in Christ Jesus he is even more glorious. As the glory of the latter temple at Jerusalem, according to the prophet, was to exceed that of the former, so in the reconstruction and renewal of the ruined temple of our nature, it rises to a higher dignity and a diviner glory than before the ruins of the fall. Adam, with all the dignity of his nature, and the possibilities of his great and God-like powers, accomplished nothing worthy either of himself or his maker. To say the least of him, he was a sublime failure ! But the redeemed man is a glorious success. He is emphatically the divine man, made like unto the Son of God ! He has been tried and found faithful. He has fought and conquered ; the victor's meed is his ; and he it is who shall ultimately be crowned with glory and honor. What moral beauty, and even sublimity, attach to the Christian character, even in the humblest walks of life ! The Christian sets himself in the line of religious life and duty, and dares to do right, even "if the heavens fall !" "He endures as seeing him who is invisible." The world may take no account of him ; but God smiles approvingly and points him to a fadeless crown in heaven. But when we call up the great Christian heroes of the past, and view them in the midst of their mightiest achievements, how they loom up into a sort of God-like grandeur ! I might point you to St. Paul at Athens, when challenged by certain philosophers of the Epicureans and of the Stoics, as he stands forth in the midst of Mars Hill, exclaiming, "Ye men of Athens, I perceive that in all things ye are too superstitious," or as Howason and Connybeare have it, involving commendation rather than censure, "Ye men of Athens, I perceive that in all things ye are a very religious people; for as I passed by your devotions I found an altar with this inscription, To the Unknown God! Whom therefore ye ignorantly worship, Him declare I unto you." And proceeding with that masterly and overpowering argument, even to its climax, asserting the majesty of the Christian's God as the creator of all things, and the consequent duty and responsibility of man to seek and serve him, until he loomed up before his auditors like some mighty censor from the presence of the gods, come to vindicate their honor and their altars, and the learned logician and the profound philosopher alike were confounded before him. I might point you to Martin Luther, at the Diet of Worms in his final answer to that body as he steps forth into the midst of that august assembly—his life trembling in the balance and dependent on his answer—and planting his foot firmly on the floor, exclaiming in his own nervous vernacular, "Hier stehe Ich; Ich kann nicht anders; Gott helfe mir; Amen." "Here I stand; I cannot do otherwise; God help me; Amen." The whole assembly were "thunderstruck," the historian tells us, and they stood aghast as they gazed at the incorrigible Monk as though he were some vengeful visitant from another world. Finally I might cite you to John Wesley at Epworth; where turning the tomb of his honored sire into a sort of sacred rostrum, he stood forth in his grandeur like the angel of the Resurrection, with death, as it were, beneath his feet, proclaiming the gospel of Christ and thrilling the hearts of the multitude with that glorious announcement! Or better, when about to exchange worlds, his death-bed was transformed, as it were, into a triumphal car and the scenes of his dissolution into a sort of Apotheosis, by which the great preacher was to take his place in the calendar of the gods, exclaiming in glorious triumph in the very hour and article of death, "The best of all is, God is with us!" This was not death; death was swallowed up in victory! Was it not rather a transition to a higher life?

Though a mortal wreck was wrought
 The spirit grand,
 In ecstasy away was caught,
 Unhurt to stand,
 Beyond the highest reach of thought,
 At God's right hand!

When we contemplate such exhibitions of Christian manhood rising up, as it were, from the human into the divine and the God-like, who but feels proud to call himself a man, and instinctively cries out in the language of the text, "What hath God wrought!"

In contemplating the work of God in the earth, we are struck with certain great events occurring at intervals, giving it such prominence and imparting to it such impulse in its onward march as to constitute them epochs in its history. The exodus, the building of the temple and the return from the Babylonish captivity are instances under the old dispensation; and the Pentecost, the Reformation and the revival of Spiritual Christianity under the Wesleys, are instances under the new dispensation. Confining remarks to the latter: the Pentecost, with its miraculous manifestations, was a wonderful display of the presence and power of God, giving to the Christian religion in its very inception the prestige of a divine sanction, and enduing the infant church with power from on high for the great work of evangelizing the world. The Reformation was a sort of earthquake upheaval of the old foundations of error and superstition that had crept into and corrupted the church; and a re-adjustment of its moral forces, with such infusion of the spirit of life from God, as to restore it to its ancient power and efficiency in its glorious mission of conquering the world for Christ. The work of God under the Wesleys has been termed the great modern Pentecost; and indeed it was scarcely less marked in its early history by the presence and power of God than that of the primitive church itself. Methodism, born of the Spirit of God in the heart of its illustrious founder, took its impress as an organized form of Christianity from his own great nature; and in his dying exclamation—"The best of all is, God is with us!"—he did but pronounce the key-note of the system founded by his life, which was to make it a power for good in all the earth. What was it but a new form of the old battle-cry "The sword of the Lord and of Gideon!" with which the victorious "Three Hundred" rushed upon and routed their Midianitish enemies, scattering them as chaff before the wind. It was the recognition and realization of an ever-present God to give success and triumph to his people, whether in life or death. This was the secret of its power. With such a faith and such an experience Methodism became invincible, and I might say almost irresistible! With this innate power it swept as by miracle over commonwealths, kingdoms and continents, found its way to islands of distant seas; and anticipating and pioneering civilization itself, it carried the glad tidings into the dark places of the earth and the habitations of cruelty, and into the very regions and shadows of death, almost literally realizing the vision in the Apocalypse of the angel flying through the midst of heaven having the everlasting gospel to preach to the nations. Methodism, at this day, is a great and mighty fact, full of divine import, not only in this country, but throughout Christendom and the whole world. From the smallest beginnings it has assumed the most gigantic proportions, almost world-wide in its sweep. Wherever there is sin to be encountered or souls to be saved, there is methodism, with its almost ubiquitous itinerant, its class-meeting, and its spirit of revival, then as God's blessed angel, to "bind up the broken-hearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, and the recovery of sight to the blind, to set at liberty them that are bruised, to proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord." The statistics of Methodism for 1877-78 are in round numbers—Ministers, Itinerants and Local—100,000; living members, 4,500,000, with an aggregate population, under its influence and waiting on its ministry, of not less than 22,000,000 of souls! "Behold how great a matter a little fire kindleth!" And when we remember that all this and much more has resulted from the first hundred years of its existence, we may well exclaim again in the language of the text, "What hath God wrought!"

But while Methodism is so Evangelical in doctrine and so blessed in experience : so simple, pure and unpretending in its forms of worship, it must be admitted that its governmental polity has not been in keeping with these beautiful features of the system. The government of Methodism, in its parent stock, under various forms, has been singularly abnormal in its character. While proclaiming spiritual liberty to the captives of satan, it has bound the Lord's freemen with Ecclesiastical fetters, and denied to them the rights inherent in their Christian manhood. Its government was not an outgrowth, natural to the system : but was wholly foreign to it, resulting from outside agencies and influences altogether. It may have seemed domestic and home-like for Mr. Wesley—being under God, the father of all his Societies within the pale of the Church of England—to extend his Patriarchal government over them. But it may be doubted whether it was best for either. For while its tendency was to dwarf Christian manhood, on the one hand, it furnished opportunity for the exercise of arbitrary power on the other, an opportunity which it would have been well for even Mr. Wesley not to have had. And the deed of settlement, with its hundred corporators, was certainly not an improvement on the One-man power, as one master is surely to be preferred to one hundred. But if the government of Methodism in England was objectionable, that imposed upon it in America was even more so. In the former case, the irresponsible governing authorities were limited to one hundred ; but in the latter, they might be increased "ad infinitum," each additional itinerant minister being one more superadded to the powers that be ! In singular contrast with that of the country—now a pure Republic—the government of the M. E. Church in 1784 was so framed as to secure all Legislative, Executive and Judicial power in the hands of the itinerant ministers, to the exclusion of all other ministers and all the people. This might be accounted for, at least in part, from the fact that all the chief ministers in the Conference that framed it were politically loyal Englishmen, and they could not, therefore, readily take in and appreciate the new order of things. But whatever the cause, such was the fact.

It was not to be wondered at, therefore, that many of the ministers and the more enlightened of the laity should be dissatisfied with the government as it existed ; nor that they should put forth becoming and persistent effort to bring about such changes in its principles as would be satisfactory to all concerned. It was their right to do so in a lawful and respectful manner. They were Methodists—Methodists in the fullest sense of the term. They had been converted in that church ; there they enjoyed the means of grace the most grateful to their hearts, and which they could not have anywhere else ; and there, too, were their dearest associations in life and their most delightful fellowship. They loved Methodism, but they could not be insensible to its defects. They saw the fair form of spiritual Methodism marred by the excesses of ministerial domination. They saw the peace and unity of the church threatened by an element wholly foreign to its real nature and hindering to its healthful growth and progress. And beside, some of them had already begun to feel the pressure of the iron heel of power, and under those circumstances they felt it to be a sacred duty to the church as well as to themselves to bring about such changes in its government as would, in their judgment, bring it more in accord with the principles of the primitive church, and without impairing its vigor or efficiency, render it more acceptable to the masses of a Republican people.

But who were these men—these old Reformers? Were they men who, from their position and character, were entitled to a hearing? Or were they, as they have been ~~together~~ represented to be, mere troublers in Israel, aspiring to place and power? According to their most bitter and powerful opponent—Dr. Bond, the elder—they were men “whose very errors,” as he assumed them to be, “challenged the admiration of mankind!” And according to the grave and historic pen of Dr. Abel Stephens, they were men whose character, talents and prestige as eminent preachers, rendered their loss to the parent church a deplorable misfortune. Without disparagement to others, I may be permitted to name two of the most prominent—Nicholas Snethen and Asa Shinn.

Snethen was a man in its noblest sense,
 By nature one of Nature's noblemen;
 Take him for all his heart, his mind immense—
 We ne'er shall look upon his like again!
 Exalted genius sate upon his brow;
 A deathless fire within his bosom glowed;
 Yet, as a child, he brought himself to bow,
 And consecrate his service all to God!

And Shinn was his immortal compeer and bosom friend; and through life their friendship was like that of David and Jonathan, almost as tender as that of children.

These great and good men, though, in their general cast of character and intellect, very unlike, were, nevertheless, in some respects like Luther and Melancthon, complements of each other. The one the magnificent orator with an imagination that swept through earth and heaven, in the creation of those sublime pictures, by which he held his audiences, sometimes numbering many thousands, spell-bound, while he carried the citadel of heart and conscience with his resistless eloquence! The other, the profound logician, never so much at home, as when revelling amid metaphysical abstractions by the power of argumentation alone, evolving the great truths of the Gospel and presenting them to his hearers with such force of logic as to be positively overpowering!—Snethen had an intuitive perception of great truths; and like some mighty seer, was wont to announce them with startling effect, even in advance of ordinary thought and investigation. Shinn, on the contrary, would go down to the foundation of things and by laborious processes of thought, work up those great truths, placing them upon an immovable basis of logical demonstration, defying all successful contradiction. Thus the one was the pioneer and advance-guard of truth, going before and leading the van of human thought. The other, bringing up the rear and marshalling, as it were, the great body of its forces, and carrying the whold field with resistless power!

Such, and such-like, were the men of 1828, who advocated Reform in the Methodist Episcopal Church, men of piety, talent and culture, and without the shadow of a stain upon their Christian character. And they brought all these great abilities to the work they had taken in hand.—

too often

They calmly and dispassionately discussed the subject of Church Government, and with such cogency of argument, as almost to defy controversy on the part of their opponents, proving, beyond the shadow of a doubt, the right of the laity, in the light of the New Testament, to be heard in the councils of the Church. And availing themselves of the Universal Right of Petition, which God himself has granted, and man has no authority to deny, they approached the authorities of the Church in the most humble and respectful manner, praying for the changes they desired. Thus for two successive General Conferences—1824, 1828—the latter, even after the cruel work of persecution and expulsion had begun in Baltimore and elsewhere, they sought to bring about an amicable adjustment of the matter of controversy between them. But, unfortunately, for the Church, as well as the cause of Reform, these men were misunderstood and misconstrued, not to say misrepresented, by the powers that be! Their motives were impugned, their principles stigmatised as radical in their character, and the whole movement denounced as only tending to disorganization and ruin. They were coldly and even indignantly repelled in their approaches and turned empty away from the door of the General Conference. The response to their respectful and repeated petitions for Reform was cavalier and unkind, claiming for themselves, as itinerant ministers, all Legislative, Executive and Judicial power as of Divine right; and utterly repudiating the idea that the laity should have any participation whatever in the Councils of the Church.

All hope of any satisfactory change in the government of the Church having now vanished, the friends of Reform withdrew in considerable numbers in various parts of the country. Among the withdrawals were fifty ladies, of Baltimore, friends of the eleven local preachers and the twenty-two laymen who had been expelled in that city. These ladies nobly withdrew in a body after addressing to the preacher in charge in the form of a letter that grand Declaration of Ecclesiastical Independence, at the close of which they say: "In short, to find our dear companions, fathers, brothers, children and friends treated as criminals and enemies, persecuted, suspended and expelled; denounced as backsliders and disturbers of the peace; and to be ourselves treated coldly and distantly by our former friends and by our pastors; and all this for a mere difference of opinion about church government, is more than we feel bound in Christian charity longer to endure; and we, therefore, feel it our duty in the fear of God, though with emotions of poignant sorrow and with aching hearts, to withdraw from the church of our choice and fondest attachments. To this painful resort we are driven by the measures you have taken against our friends and brethren. To remain in the church under the circumstances now existing, would be to evidence a want of filial, connubial and fraternal attachment to our persecuted friends, and a want of self respect. We, therefore, request you to consider us as withdrawn from the Methodist Episcopal Church, and to furnish us a joint or individual certificate of our acceptable standing as soon as convenient." This was signed by each and all and sent to the preacher in charge, and thus their connection with the Mother Church was forever severed.

These expelled and seceding brethren and sisters, everywhere, for their own spiritual support, organized themselves into societies and kept up their religious meetings. To meet the exigencies of the case a convention was called, which met in the city of Baltimore November 12th, 1828. This convention, as Dr. Southerland has well remarked in his Semi-Centennial address, was unparalleled in the history of Methodism, consisting, as it did, of an equal number of ministers and laymen, elected and sent up as the representatives of both the ministry and laity. Seventeen articles of Association were drawn up by the convention to serve as a Provisional Government for the new organization, which took the name of The Associated Methodist Churches until a Constitution and Book of Discipline could be provided by a subsequent convention. This convention was accordingly called and met in the same city (Baltimore) November 2nd, 1830, in St John's Church, Liberty street. Rev. Francis Waters, D. D., of Baltimore, was elected President, and Rev. W. C. Lipscomb, of Georgetown, D. C., was chosen Secretary, and Mr. W. S. Stockton, of Philadelphia, Assistant Secretary. The convention continued in session three weeks, and the result of their united councils was the noble Constitution and Book of Discipline under which, with slight alterations, the Methodist Protestant Church—the name adopted by the convention—has lived and prospered throughout the first half century of her existence. "The Constitution," says Dr. Paris, "being the law of laws, defines and guards the mutual rights of the ministry and laity, and stands as a land-mark to govern church legislation. The whole stands as a monument of the wisdom and piety of the men who framed it. The true principles of ecclesiastical republicanism shine brightly in all its features."—Paris' Man.

Such was the origin of the Methodist Protestant Church: and from the facts recited, it is clear that the object of the Reformers was, not to organize a new Church; but to reform and popularize the government of the old one, the M. E. Church. But in this they failed; and by reason of the circumstances referred to, they were compelled, as Methodists either to abandon their principles and penitently return to the Church from which so many of them had been unfeelingly excluded; or band themselves together in a new organization, more in accordance with their own views of Church polity. They chose the latter and nobly did they carry out their design, embodying in the new Church the beautiful Scripture sentiment, as taught by the Saviour himself. "One is your Master, even Christ; and all ye are brethren."

Thus organized in accordance with their own ideal of what a Church ought to be in her governmental polity, the fathers and founders of the Methodist Protestant Church threw their banner of Mutual Rights to the breeze, and launched forth upon the eventful sea of Church-life, trusting alone in the Captain of their salvation, for a safe and successful voyage; and for ultimate and peaceful housing in the haven of eternal repose! Humanly speaking, they had everything to do, to achieve success. It was very different with them, from what it was with the mother Church, in her beginning in this country. Then the country was new, and comparatively unoccupied. They entered in at the auspicious moment, and took possession. They thus grew up with the country, growing with its growth and strengthening with its strength. But it was now occupied, not only by other churches; but especially by the church from which they had been excluded. A whole half century of effective labor and sacrifice, had given them position and power; and their Churches almost literally filled the land—leaving but little space for the new church to cultivate, and but a few gleanings in the great harvest field of Methodism, to reward her toil! But they were men of brave hearts and of holy trust in God; and they went to work with a will, looking for their reward in a better world. They organized Churches, laid out circuits and fields of labor; mapped off the whole land into Conference Districts, built parsonages and houses of worship—proclaiming a free Gospel in connection with a free government, and sacrificed, and labored, and prayed for success. Nor did they labor and pray in vain. Under all the circumstances, the Methodist Protestant Church, at this day, is a marvel of success. We have had our vicissitudes, and our circumstances of adversity; but the Church has made steady progress through the whole of the Semi-Centennial period, which we this day, and by these services, commemorate. The disturbing element of slavery, which divided the Mother Church in '44, divided us in '58, all the North and West, with a few fragmentary exceptions, full one-half of the whole church, having gone off in a body. In addition to this, the Civil war was very disastrous to a great part of our work, laying the most of our feeble Conferences in the South prostrate in the dust. And, unfortunately, on coming out of the war, in some instances, we got a little too near to our Southern Methodist brethren, and the result was in a few cases the association lapsed into absorption. We did not lose much in this way, however, the churches and conferences generally rallying to their old standard of Mutual Rights, strengthening the things that remained, and thus recovering their former vigor and prosperity. And no sooner had the war-cloud lifted than our brethren of the North and West, true to their old instincts, now that slavery was out of the way, began to discover symptoms of a desire to return to their ancient moorings with the church, from which they had for a time suffered themselves to wander. This was kindly encouraged in the spirit of brotherhood, and every facility was afforded for the bringing about of a consummation so devoutly to be wished. And on the 17th day of May, in the year of grace 1877, by the blessing of God, there was a glorious blending of the two fragments of the dissevered church into one harmonious whole! It was a scene—that re-union—that angels might have rejoiced to witness. One of our aged ministers from Michigan shouted aloud on the street, as with streaming eyes he gazed upon the sublime spectacle on Lombard Street, Baltimore, when the two sections, by their respective representatives, met and mingled into one; and then moved in grand procession to the Starr Methodist Protestant Church, ~~when~~ in joint convention they ratified the union. And who that witnessed can ever forget the scene that followed—that feast of reason and flow of soul which characterized the intercourse and communion of these brethren, as they realized that after years of separation and estrangement they were all one again. Yes; blessed be God! the union was consummated; and to-day we stand a united church, knowing no North, no South, no East, no West—one broad, unbroken brotherhood, a ~~continental~~ Methodism, national in our boundaries, and spreading out all over the land.

"According to this time it shall be said of Jacob and of Israel"—aye, and of "little Benjamin" also, as our venerable—now sainted—brother, Rev. Isaac Webster, used to call our youthful church—yes; of little Benjamin also, "according to this time"—our year of Jubilee—it shall be said, "What hath God wrought!" With 44 Annual Conferences stretching from ocean to ocean, and from the lakes on the north to the Gulf of Mexico on the south, with 1300 itinerant and 900 unstationed ministers, 1,400 houses of worship, 120,000 living members, and a church property valuation, amounting in the aggregate to nearly $3,000-000, and all this in the first fifty years of our existence as a church, we may well exclaim in the language of the text, "What hath God wrought!" It is true, as a church, we have done but little in the interests of education and of missions. But with the blessing of God we are in a fair way to make ourselves felt, even in these respects. Adrian, Western Maryland and Yadkin are rapidly coming up to the standard of first-class institutions, and are already diffusing the blessings of education throughout the church. Especially are they doing a good work for the church under the patronage of our excellent Board of Ministerial Education, in training our young men for the work of the active ministry. Much may be expected in this direction. And there is every reason to believe that our Board of Foreign Missions, with such an efficient agent in the field, will at no distant day wipe out our reproach in regard to the subject of Missions. We confidently hope soon to take our place in this respect with our sister churches, and do our part in the great work of bringing the heathen world to the feet of Jesus. But I have said nothing of the tens of thousands who, during these fifty years, have gone up shouting from our altars to join the blood-washed millions around the throne. There they are to-day, the ripened fruits of our gathering, safely garnered in the skies.

But apart from all this, the influence we have exerted for good on the mother church in the way of a modification of her polity and its practical workings, is something to be noted. Our fathers labored to effect Reform and to introduce Lay-Representation into that church. In this they failed, so far as their direct efforts were concerned. But organizing, as they did, their principles were not only maintained but became crystalized, as it were, and embodied before the world; and thus the work of Reform went on. What is the result? Why the very principles for which the old Reformers contended and for which many of them suffered ecclesiastical martyrdom, are now conceded by both sections of the mother church. Lay-Delegation is a verity to-day in the M. E. Church, both north and south. They are not up to our standard, it is true, and in this respect our work is not yet done. But revolutions, it is said, never go backward, and we may assure ourselves that these principles, like the leaven hid in the measure of meal, will continue to work until the whole lump is leavened—until the Mutual Rights of the ministry and laity shall be fully conceded in the M. E. Church as our own. But in such a case some one may inquire "would not your church be swallowed up and done away with?" No; not necessarily so by any means, nor is such a thing likely to occur. For while the myriad masses might prefer the mother church with her episcopacy, there would be other tens of thousands who would prefer a church without a Bishop as well as a State without a King. "For one is your master, even Christ; and all ye are brethren." Had Lay-Representation been conceded to our fathers, the Methodist Protestant Church would never have had an existence. But forced as they were into being, other principles, quite as important, have been embodied in the new organization, which the M. E. Church will never concede and which the Methodist Protestant Church will never give up. As a church we have passed the Rubicon, and the very bridges have been cut away from behind us. There is no possible return and there can be no surrender. The Methodist Protestant Church has taken her position and must maintain it. She has long been known and acknowledged among the great sisterhood of churches in this land, and in this recognized and honored relation she must go down to the end of time. And let her but be true to herself and to the memory of the fathers and founders of her polity; and another Semi-Centennial (which some of our children may live to see) will find her established throughout the length and breadth of the land, and marshalling, it may be, a million of immortal men and women in the great work of conquering the world for Christ. And in view of such a past, so full of blessing and success, and such a future, so full of hope and bright anticipation, we may well again exclaim in the language of the text, "What hath God wrought!"

But we celebrate to-day, the Semi-Centennial, not only of the Methodist Protestant Church; but, also, of the Maryland Annual Conference.

The first session of the Maryland Annual Conference was held in St. John's Church, Liberty Street, Baltimore, April 2, 1829—wanting just twenty-one days of fifty years ago! I have been permitted recently to read a copy of the Minutes of that Conference, as carefully preserved by Rev. Dr. Ward, with the deepest interest. It is a most precious relic of the long past. From it we learn that Rev. D. E. Reese, Sr., was elected President pro. tem. and P. B. Hopper, Secretary. As permanent officers, Rev. N. Snethen was elected President and James Parrott of Easton, Secretary, and Rev. L. J. Cox of Baltimore, Assistant Secretary. The Conference was composed of fifteen ministers and preachers, and the same number of laymen, as delegates. Only ten ministers and preachers received appointments within our bounds. In addition to these, Rev. Dr. Dunn was appointed to the Philadelphia Circuit, and Rev. John Fernon was appointed Missionary for Pennsylvania and New Jersey! These latter appointments, in their extent of territory, are something to be remembered by all, and especially by the younger members of the Conference.

In contemplating the organization of this Maryland Annual Conference, a beautiful incident floats up in vision to the mind. It is that of a ruddy-faced youth—a boy of 17 years—standing at the door of Conference, knocking for entrance, that he might preach the Gospel of Christ. Those grave men look at him thoughtfully, and whisper to each other with doubtful inquiry—"Can one so young and so slight of form, sustain the hardships and responsibilities of Itinerant life?" They shake their heads significantly, and hesitate about his reception. One of their number, a man of a benevolent countenance and a rotund figure is eyeing him closely. Rising he approaches the youth and they leave the Conference-room together. He enters into conversation with the youthful preacher, and is struck with admiration and wonder. He finds him a prodigy of intellectual strength and culture—a mere boy in years and physical development; but in maturity and breadth of intellect, a man of more than ordinary cast of character. He returns to the Conference-room smiling all over his face, exclaiming as he enters, "We'll take him, Mr. President, we'll take him!" The youth was received without further hesitation, and assigned to Kent, Queen Anne's and Talbot, with that noble man of God, Rev. Dr. J. S. Reese. That ruddy-faced youth was Charles W. Jacobs, of precious memory; and that man of the benevolent countenance and the rotund figure, was Hon. P. B. Hopper, the able Jurist, and Christian gentleman, one of the fathers and founders of the Methodist Protestant Church. Long since have they met in the spirit-land—the young preacher and his patron-friend—and to-day, I doubt not, while we are engaged in these commemorative services, they are looking down upon us with the deepest interest, that interest heightened and intensified in the case of the young preacher, by the scenes of his boyhood's Itinerancy; and in the case of his patron-friend, by the life-long home, where for so many years, he dispensed a noble Christian Hospitality, and the local Church he was mainly instrumental in founding and which he loved so long and so well!

The Maryland Annual Conference consists of two distinct departments. We recognize two separate rolls of membership—the living and the dead. Both have just been called in their order. To the one there was audible responses, as each name was called, by the respective living members. To the other—although our faith may have fondly assured us of their shadowy presence—the only response, as each name was called, was the silence of the sepulchre! But take up that Dead-Roll, the "Roll of Honor," shall I call it?—and run down that list of names—Snethen, Shinn, McCaine, Jennings, Webster, Varden, the Reeses, with a long list of others, honored and beloved, that time will not allow me to mention, down to the last one of the list, so recently added that the ink is scarcely dry—John Edgar Read, the pious and gifted young pastor, called away in the midst of his years and his usefulness! Such a list of names is enough to render any Conference immortal! What a heritage is their honored names and their precious memories!

In turning from the cypress and the sepulchre, to contemplate the living department of the Conference, two venerable forms loom up before me—Rev. W. C. Lipscomb, and Rev. Thomas McCormick, both of them octogenarians, linking the present with the long past, and the only living representatives of the fathers and founders of the Church, yet lingering among us. These aged veterans were among the heroic men of 1828, and took their part in laying the foundation of the Methodist Protestant Church; and have been identified with it from the beginning. They have come up with the Church, through the whole of the Semi-Centennial period, which we to-day celebrate, as among her wise master-builders, even to this hour! I take the liberty here of quoting from a characteristic letter of the former, received but a few weeks ago. Referring to the Semi-Centennial of the Church, he says: "What a pleasure to know that I have been permitted to witness the falseness of a thousand croaking prophets, as to the failure of Methodist Protestantism. To the God of grace be the glory, whilst to myself I take regret that I have not been a more brilliant luminary of our Ecclesiastical Body." How highly we prize these fathers of our Israel, I have no language to express. God bless them! and brighten the closing days of their earthly pilgrimage—even to their eternal rest!

Close by I see a group—not a numerous one—of thoughtful, earnest men. They are scarcely yet in the sere and yellow leaf; but in their demeanor they are grave, and their footsteps are becoming measured and slow. The fire of their early manhood in large degree is abated, or only lingers in a sort of after glow. Some are approximating the apex of the hill of life—some seem pausing thoughtfully upon the summit, while others have already, evidently, started on the down-hill of life! These are the Seniors of the Conference. Well have they served the Church, in their day; but the time is approaching, when, in the order of things, they must step down and out, leaving the Conference and the Church to other, and, I pray God, to more successful hands. May Heaven in mercy let them down gently, as they go; and give to them yet many years of usefulness to bless the Church!

As I gaze I see another group, with noble, manly forms, compact and closely knit. The fire of their youth is only intensified and fanned into a flame. They move with a firm, unfaltering tread as if conscious of their power. These are the men of to-day. You see them with glowing countenances and determined mien; ready to do and to dare for God and the church. And these are the men who must shortly assume the solemn responsibility of taking the future, both of the Conference and the Church, into their own hands. May God in mercy fit them for so grave a charge and so great a work!

But as I gaze I see still another group. They are all radiant amid the light of the morning; the birds sing in the branches over their heads; and the flowers spring in their path as they pass along. Hope is in the ascendant and their hearts beat ever in unison with the joyous scenes around them. These are the juniors. They have come up amid the closing scenes of our first Semi-Centennial and have found everything made ready to their hands. I congratulate them upon their circumstances and surroundings. The lines have fallen to them in pleasant places; yea, "they have a goodly heritage." And if I were to venture a word of advice to them, I would say to each in the language of the great apostle to the Gentiles:—"Study to show thyself approved unto God; a workman that needeth not be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth: Quit you like men—be strong: Let no man despise thy youth!" Much is expected of them. May they more than realize the most sanguine expectations.

Grouping all these brethren together, now more than one hundred strong, and constantly increasing, as the living membership of the Conference of to-day, as I look forward, I thank God and take courage. With such a body of men, earnest workers for Jesus, I have no fears for the future of the Conference and of the Church. God has put our cause in this District, and I may say everywhere, beyond a peradventure. It must live, by his blessing, and prosper and prevail. And when we think of our feeble beginning fifty years ago, emphatically "the day of small things," and call to mind that Spartan Band—a mere handful of men—in St. John's Church, Baltimore, without parsonages, without churches, and almost without charges, and their scattered membership making up an insignificant aggregate of only a few hundred souls, and contrast their condition and prospects with our own of to-day, our large and well-cultivated territory, our numerous charges and churches, and our inviting parsonage-houses, with a living membership aggregating probably not less than fifteen thousand souls, and the fields everywhere whitening unto the harvest before us, we may well exclaim once more in the language of the text, "What hath God wrought!"

There are two items of interest in connection with the history of the Conference I wish to notice before I close. The one illustrates the thoughtful and far-reaching wisdom of our fathers at the foundation of the body; the other the wisdom and integrity of their sons during the most trying period of its history. In regard to the first I quote from the minutes of the Conference of 1829. The item was brought forward by that noble Christian man, Rev. Luther J. Cox, and acted on by the Conference.

"Whereas, the members of this Conference are deeply sensible that our brethren who enter upon the arduous duties of the travelling ministry deserve our warmest support, and believing it to be the duty and interest of the churches to render them and their families, while actively engaged in the work of the itinerancy, and also when they are no longer able to do the effective work of an itinerant minister, as comfortable as possible, therefore, Resolved, that this Conference earnestly recommend the members of the Associated Methodist Churches, that in every Circuit and Station within the bounds of the Conference, to form themselves into societies, auxiliary to a society that shall be formed in the city of Baltimore, the object of which shall be to provide a fund for the support of the superannuated and worn out travelling preachers, their wives and children, having a special regard to the education of the children of brethren so employed."—Min. p. 7.

Thus our fathers, while laying the foundation of a pure itinerancy in our District, shutting the itinerant out from all business avocations, all money-making, and shutting him up to the one work of the gospel, were mindful of his coming necessities; and their endeavor by this action was to provide for his dark and rainy days, when age or disability should come upon him, and thus to relieve his mind from depressing anxiety and care while devoting his best powers to the interests of the church. This was thoughtful and just as it should have been; and the action of this first Conference upon the subject was doubtless the beginning of that noble charity, known among us as the Superannuated Fund Society, which has been doing such a beneficent work in our District for years past, in administering to the wants of our aged and infirm ministers and their families and their widows and orphans as well.

The other item to which I refer is the position assumed and maintained by this Conference during the late war. While other ecclesiastical bodies all over the land seemed vieing with one another in their resolutions of loyalty and patriotism, the Maryland Annual Conference for herself preserved a dignified and noble silence on the subject, eschewing all entangling alliances of a political character, leaving her members free, as citizens, to deal with the question, each for himself. In Conference relations, however, we determined to know nothing among men, save Jesus Christ and him crucified, devoting ourselves to our one work of proclaiming by word and example "the unsearchable riches of Christ." This course was severely criticised both in the church and out of it. A gentleman, high in civil position at Washington, approached an honored member of this body with the inquiry, "What action has your church (meaning the Conference) taken in regard to the war?" "None;" was the reply. "So I supposed," he rejoined. "I have been watching your movements. I have the record of every church in the land—your own among them—and intend to publish it to the world that it may be known just where each has stood during this crisis of the country's history." This was uttered in a spirit of asperity and in a sort of threatening way as though that "record" was a rod in pickle for the back of the church or Conference that dared to attend to her own business and let that of others alone. I never heard of its publication. Certain it is the Conference still survives, and is more than ever confirmed in the wisdom of her course in the premises. God smiled on us all through the war and we were never more prosperous at any period of our history. And I am glad to know that brethren of all shades of political sentiment gave it their most hearty approval and exerted all their influence to maintain it intact. But while we were thus severely criticised by some, we were admiringly approved by others. A professional gentleman belonging to another church was drawn toward us by reading in the newspaper our resolution consecrating ourselves afresh to our one work of preaching the unsearchable riches of Christ. In a letter which came to my notice and which I had the honor, as the Executive, of answering, referring to the resolutions approvingly he said:—"I thank God that there is yet one church in the land that is true to Christ!" and expressed an anxious desire to become one of us. He soon after united with the Methodist Protestant Church and entered the active ministry in another Conference; and is to-day, and has been for years, an honored member of this body.

In conclusion, reviewing the whole subject, in connection with the Conference, and the Church, and gratefully recognizing all the prosperity and success that have attended our labors during this the first Semi-Centennial of our existence, as a Conference, and as a Church, we may once more and finally exclaim in the language of the text—"What hath God wrought!"

"And now unto Him that is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the power that worketh in us; unto Him be glory in the Church by Christ Jesus throughout all ages, world without end! Amen!"

WESTERN MD. COLLEGE,

WESTMINSTER, MD.

THE PECULIAR ADVANTAGE This College offers is that parents can have their sons and daughters educated in the same Institution, and under the same instruction. Although both sexes have the same instructors, yet the two departments are kept entirely separate.

The Vice-President, Preceptress, and other members of the Faculty, reside in the building, eat at the same table with the Students, and have constant oversight of them.

PATRONAGE AND DIRECTION. The College property is owned by a Board of Trustees, incorporated in March, 1868, by the General Assembly of Maryland, and the Institution is under the special patronage of the Maryland Annual Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church; but nothing will be introduced either into the Course of Study or the discipline and management of the Institution which can be, in any way, objectionable to Students of other religious persuasions. Expenses from $200 to $250 per annum.

APPEAL TO PARENTS AND GUARDIANS. The importance of a liberal education, in times like these must be apparent to all. We invite your correspondence in view of placing your children under our care, and assure you that the utmost pains will be taken to promote their physical comfort and intellectual and moral advancement. Send for our Catalogue. Address:
